Necessary legal stuff (for the American legal system):
Everything in this book is highly questionable or outright wrong. You are a fool for applying anything in this book to your application, especially applications involving life, health, or anything of any remote value. The reader is responsible for determining the suitability to their application, and holds harmless and indemnifies ControlSphere LLC, CODESYS Corporation, Bedrock Automation, their employees, associates, and anyone mentioned or involved in the making of this book for any damage that may occur from anything to do with this book, its website, or in sharing the same planetary orbit.

§ 2 Shipping

Standard shipping is non-trackable and non-insurable. This means the package cannot be tracked during any point of transit, including whether the carrier received the package. In certain instances, the carrier may be able to provide a reference number that is only associated with the package and it may or may not be used for tracking purposes. You are responsible for lost and/or damaged shipments.

Contact support@BookOfCodesys.com for alternate shipping methods.

§ 3 Governing Law

This User Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the United States of America. Place of jurisdiction for any dispute arising directly or indirectly from this Agreement is Orlando Florida, USA. Claims may also be asserted against each contracting party in its general place of jurisdiction.

§ 4 Severability Clause

Should one provision of this Contract be or become invalid, or should the Contract contain a gap, the validity of the remaining provisions shall remain unaffected. In place of the ineffective provisions, or in order to fill the gap, a provision shall apply which, in so far as legally viable, approaches the original intention of the contractual parties as closely as possible, or what can be assumed to have been their intention if they had considered the point in question.
